

Rethinking Justice: People of Faith Respond

Power, properly understood, is the ability to achieve a purpose. It is the strength required to bring about social, political or economic changes.
-Martin Luther King, Jr.

Purpose:

This workshops will introduce (or review) the principles of congregation-based community organization to people of faith throughout the Greater Columbus area.

Topics:

- "The Prophetic Call"-what the Bible says that God intends for the political, economic and religious systems & the role of people of faith
- "How BREAD has answered that call"-overview of BREAD's work and characteristics of the organization
- Using Anger & Power effectively
- One to One: The key to building power
- A Biblical Model for Taking Action"
- "Busy Work v. God's Work"

Who Should Come?

Anyone who has an interest in learning about the biblical mandate to "do justice" and about strategies to implement that mandate. Anyone who is interested in learning to more effectively organize people in their congregations (or neighborhood or organization).

Who Will Lead These Workshops?

Each of these workshops will be led by a team of three experienced leaders from the B.R.E.A.D.-member congregations. These leaders will discuss their experience along with the principles of congregation-based organizing.

---

The Rethinking Justice workshop is repeated periodically to introduce new leaders and new congregationst to the work of B.R.E.A.D. The next workshop is...

Saturday, June 3

8:45 a.m.-Registration

The Way of Holiness Church

1088 Weber Road

Bishop Christine C. McGee, Pastor

B.R.E.A.D. Rises...B.R.E.A.D. Rises...B.R.E.A.D. Rises

For further information about B.R.E.A.D., please call 258-8748